Abstract 摘要:

Clinical treatment and application of traditional Chinese medicine for anosmia
Anosmia may result from trauma, chronic sinusitis, neoplasms, and respiratory viral infections such as rhinovirus and SARS-CoV-2. Anosmia and hyposmia have received attention during the COVID-19 epidemic, either as an initial symptom at the onset of illness or as sequelae after the disease.

We analyzed these symptoms and diseases from the perspective of traditional Chinese medicine (TCM), and have proposed promising treatment based on the classic TCM concept.

We have been cooperating with otolaryngologists to treat patients with poor sense of smell since 2013 and wish the “real world” clinical data will be “real world” evidence with studies.
